Personal Giving Testimony Instructions

It's a helpful exercise to understand your own personal history of giving. This includes recognizing the examples and influences from your personal life as well as your own history of giving. As you write your personal giving testimony, consider including some of the following ideas:

- Be totally honest with yourself
- Was giving modeled to you by someone in your life?
- How do you decide how much to give?
- What are the motives (good and bad) for why you have given as much as you have?
- What are the motives (good and bad) for why you haven't given more?
- How do you decide where to give and why do you give to the places you currently support?
- What is / has been your attitude on the issue of giving and what are your thoughts when the topic is discussed?
- Has giving been a joy to you or a struggle and in what ways?
- Where have you seen blessings from your giving (either for the ministry you supported or you personally)?
- How has giving affected you personally and/or spiritually?
